It is our great pleasure to announce and invite abstract submissions for the 25th CiCea International Conference “Education, Citizenship and Social Change: Building bridges”, that will be held at Malmö University in Malmö, Sweden, Thursday 13th to Saturday 15th June, 2024. The conference is organized by the Children's Identity & Citizenship European Association (CiCea), one of the leading organizations promoting the teaching and research of Citizenship Education in Europe and the rest of the world and Malmö University known for its global engagement, community involvement, and a multidisciplinary, challenge-based approach to education, research, and collaboration.

One of the most significant challenges for any democratic society is to empower young people to become lifelong engaged and active citizens. The theme for the 2023 Cicea conference, “Education, citizenship and social change: building bridges”, highlights how education connects to and can encourage social and political action and change and further promote emancipatory engagement and leadership in both formal and informal contexts. The conference aims to focus on and to build bridges between theory and practice and connect different institutional levels of education, and diverse forms of civic engagement.

We welcome papers examining this theme, including but not limited to:

- Building bridges between theory and practice
- Empirical, philosophical, methodological and/or conceptual aspects of education, citizenship and social change
- How and in what ways education can encourage young people to engage in social action both locally and globally and promote active citizenship
- We are also very keen to receive papers focusing on all other aspects of citizenship education and values from around the world exploring curriculum design, pedagogy, psychology, youth identities, law, human rights, history education, and policy-making
