Editorial

Dear CiCea Members,

The new academic year for most of us has started and along with it many challenges – we wish you a great year – personally and professionally. Our next Executive Committee meeting is set for 2nd-3rd November, 2011 in Berlin. In Dublin during the AGA meeting we set out annual goals for CiCea. One of these was the establishment of local CiCea Affiliates. The intention is to help promote the goals of the Association and to provide opportunities for sharing in a more personal and direct manner the efforts of the European Association – international work finding a voice and advocates at the local and regional level. In line with this initiative we suggest our members, consider the benefits of establishing a local and/or regional CiCea Affiliate. There are various ways of going about this, one is to follow a four step plan (see next page, left column), all of this leading up to the temporary chairperson asking for a motion to form an affiliate. In either case, a steering committee needs to be established so that it can begin the process of establishing the CiCea Affiliate.

Some of the things this committee will need to do include making a motion to affiliate, discussing and proposing the constitution and bylaws to be adopted. Based on the structure of the bylaws, election of officers and executive should be conducted. Reasonable local dues should also be established. Finally, a letter to CiCea needs to be sent announcing the establishment of the local and/or regional affiliate. The membership rooster and a application for a local charter needs to be sent with a copy of the local affiliate's constitutions, bylaws and list of officers/steering committee to CiCea. CiCea is ready to assist you through this process. Together we can effect change at the grass roots level by bringing together people who care about the issues of children's identity and citizenship and do it in a direct and effective member!! One of the first efforts to establish a local affiliate is set to begin in November here in Greece. Let us know if you too are interested in doing so.

In this newsletter, Anne-Marie Van den Dries provides a brief but very informative detailing of how one can go about exploring the potentials of staff mobility in the area of EU Lifelong Learning Mobility protocol. Today, the elements of collaboration and mobility among higher education staff are becoming increasingly important and at the same time more complex. People benefit from the experience they gain at the host institution, not only in terms of language knowledge, but also in intercultural know-how. Anyone who has taken advantage of staff mobility opportunities will attest to the benefits it offers! Try it, we're sure you will like it.

Establishing a local/ regional CiCea Affiliate: A four step plan

'Step 1 - Lay the Foundation'

(Select a nucleus of potential members and steering committee and contact CiCea and let them know about your desire to establish a local and/or regional affiliate);

'Step 2 - Organize the Nucleus'

(Call an organizational meeting. Establish a framework for which the local affiliate can be developed. Set up an agenda for this Steering Committee meeting to include: the purpose and benefits of a local affiliate; procedure for chartering a local affiliate; membership eligibility and the potential of the area; identify who will serve as the acting chairman; set time, date, and place for the first general organizational meeting; make a list of potential members and divide up the responsibility for contacting each.) Develop a tentative local constitution and bylaws prior to the organizational meeting;

'Step 3 - Make it known to potential members'

(Get the word out, emails, announces, radio, newsletters...);

'Step 4 - Conduct the organizational meeting'

(You need to SELL the idea of a local CiCea affiliate!! You can do this by explaining the purposes and objectives of a local affiliate, and discuss possible activities to help accomplish them.

Let yourself be challenged!

Creating Citizenship Communities: Local, National and Global

THE UNIVERSITY of York, England

24th to 26th May 2012

We are pleased to announce the 14th annual Children's Identity and Citizenship in Europe Conference. The conference will be held at the National Science Learning Centre, University of York, UK, from the 24th to the 26th of May 2012.

This year's conference will be organized in association with two significant groups in the field of citizenship education: CitizED (a global network of academics) and the project team of the Esmée Fairbairn funded initiative 'Creating Citizenship Communities'.

The conference theme of creating citizenship communities is particularly pertinent to citizenship and identities education. It reflects on current concerns for community cohesion from local to global scales and chimes with current initiatives around volunteering and intergenerational solidarity.

A full call for papers will be available from the CiCe website in November, with all relevant information on how to register for the conference. The deadline for paper submissions is likely to open in late November, with a deadline of late December.

We expect the demand for places to be high. York is a beautiful historic city. The National Science Learning Centre is recently built and offers very good conference facilities.

We look forward to seeing you all in York.

Staff Mobility:

Staff is meant in the broad sense: so not only faculty but also administration officers are considered staff. These good people can not only go on a teaching staff exchange but can also enjoy an experience associated with enterprise life for a while. And vice versa.

A small remark to start with: staff linked to a research university often have their own budget within their faculty/department to go abroad for pursuing their research goals. In this Newsletter we focus on those staff members who want to go on an exchange visit and teach at the same time or gain experience either in an administration or in an enterprise.

Be aware that booking a flight and a nice hotel, is one thing but these costs cannot be accepted as such by your University or University College!

A considerable amount of documents have to be filled in, and if you want reimbursement of your costs you need the approval of your Head of Department and that of the Head of the International Office. It is also a matter of insurance!

➔ Erasmus: So off you go to your own International Office and check if there is a bilateral agreement between your institution and one of the institutions you have in mind.

Have a look at: http://ec.europa.eu/education/erasmus/doc1067_en.htm on Erasmus Staff Mobility Period. Teaching staff mobility enables staff to spend a teaching period between 1 day - or at least 5 teaching hours – and 6 weeks at a higher education institution in another participating country. To be reciprocally profitable: best 5 days!

On the same website you find the objectives of staff mobility for teaching, including even Internationalisation@Home.

See also the position paper (2000) <http://www.eaie.org/IaH/IaHPositionPaper.pdf>

What arrangements have to be made? See again the website mentioned above. Essential here is that even if you go to one of our research centres, and on an Erasmus mobility, you should have a teaching assignment, which should be integrated into the curricula of the host institution.

How is the grant managed? Have a look at: http://eacea.ec.europa.eu/llp/funding/2012/documents/jean_monnet_ka1/ajm_perdiem_2012.pdf This is the only one on the EACEA web at present and refers to the Jean Monnet action. These figures tend to vary yearly and according the EU programme...

How does the home institution get funded? This is via the National Agencies: http://ec.europa.eu/education/lifelong-learning-programme/doc1208_en.htm

IACCP 2012 Congress theme is "Nurturing Diversity for Sustainability", and it is hard to find a more fitting location for this theme than South Africa, widely known for its striking cultural and bio-diversity as well as dynamic social changes. This will be the first time that the IACCP international conference will be hosted on African soil and where more appropriate than in the rainbow nation of South Africa. The conference will take place in the little town of Stellenbosch which is surrounded by spectacular mountains and some of the world's most famous vineyards.

The meaning of citizen

The meaning of the word citizen has taken on a different shape during the ages, according to the way that the society is organized. In our study, as a researcher of the University of West Macedonia, we examine the structure of the society in the area of Aliartos Viotias (Greece), from 1920 up to today. Another factor that has an impact in our research is the forms of civilization that appeared in these small societies in the period in which the research is being conducted.

The main characteristic of these societies is that all of them were developed with the aim of providing labour for their members. A time marked by instability and weak central government, this was the main responsibility of the English company, named Lake Copais, which was responsible for the drainage of the local lake Copais and thereafter, the trade of the farms that remained after the draining of the lake.

According to this, the meaning of citizen for the society being studied, as concerns their rights and their equity, was all about that opportunities to work in this English company so as to guarantee accommodation in the house that the company owned. So, the citizens of Aliartos were fighting for their equity. They weren't expecting something direct from the share, but they were trying to use this company as an intermediary between them and the official government.

After 1950, when the English left the country and the farms were given to the Greek state, the demand for equal opportunities and rights was about to how to equally distribute these farms to all local farmers. In the last few years of the research period, where first factors were constructed and the life style has changed, the meaning of the word citizen has changed. The Greek state has entered in a stable period, and provides its citizens equal rights in the areas of labor and education. The meaning of democracy and equal is now common for everybody, not only for the farmers but also for the employees in the private and public sector.

Engaging Citizens to ensure our democracy: The role and potential of Educational Institutions, By Neil Jameson and Sebastien Chapelleu

"Teaching the art of politics in action" – a phrase coined by the late Bernard Crick – illustrates one of the principal challenges for Citizens UK. Can Citizens UK play a role in revitalising the political culture of our country? [...] Pupils, teachers, school leaders and community organisers have campaigned for community cohesion and for streets safe from muggers, traffic or rodents; housing with enough space for families to live with dignity; and for workers to be paid a living wage. Their successes are living proof that the Citizens UK philosophy of learning by action actually works." Prof Peter Mortimore, Director of the Institute of Education (1994-2000).

Tribute to Riitta Korhonen, CiCea's official Photographer

Riitta ended her functions as CiCea EC officer this past August. This is the time to thank her for her dedication. Riitta has participated in the CiCe project since 1998, chairing a Data Group, shepherding nine Working Groups, belonging to Steering Groups and the Executive Group of CiCea. Continued involvement is illustrated by attendance to all CiCe conferences and contribution to the international research on Children's Identity; she is an institutional coordinator from the beginning of CiCe. Riitta holds a PhD in Education and she is currently a senior lecturer and a researcher at the University of Turku (Department of Teacher Education in Rauma).

She is well-known for her smile, kindness... and photography! She deserves the title of CiCea's official Photographer! During these years she has collected an in-depth repertoire of CiCe and Cicea's activities.

She is presently editing her photos, which will be available soon. This is an invaluable image archive, telling part of our story as one of the most successful European academic networks ever. Thank you, Riitta.

Riitta as a young girl with a rose: Already present the photographer's gaze...
